

3.6 Valentine (2012)

I could have waked u with a kiss
But I slept so bad, so bad;
I could have rushed out to get u winter roses
But I had silly things on my mind;
I could have cooked u breakfast of all the things u like the best,
But I was expecting a phone call.
I could have bought u a ring at Aspreys in Mayfair,
But was scrambling on and off the trains;
I could have asked u out this eve,
But u were out and out again;
I could have danced with u all night,
But my physio warned me not to;
I could have annoyed u all evening long with little whisperings of love,
But u've been watching that detective
In her silly hi heels.

And all today I could have thought of u
... and I did, all day, between and before and after all the other little happenings of today.
And at the ending of the day,
I still can take u up to bed and snuggle up and snuggle down and hold u all night long, because you always are My Valentine.

Thameside - 14 February 2012